CHARGES ARE DENOUNCED BY RELIEF HEAD

H. F. McKee Relies to Support of His Assistants at Probe

Firing his last shot in defence of the administration of the city reserved, H. F. McKee, manager of this branch of the civic service, rallied to the support of his assistant Friday night in denouncing the charges made against them
by the Unemployed Men's Association and the relief committee at city hall.

This meeting, the sixth and final point in the plan to hold the investigation into the department was launched, was also featured by a lengthy address by Mr. McKee, associate member of the committee and representative of the U.M.W.A., in which he stated that the trust and confidence of the unemployed and that relief recipients adopted a "bitter attitude" towards him.

Hot denials of statements made were made by a lively battle between Mr. McKee,

Victims of Escaping Gas Fumes at Grandin School Recover

By early Tuesday afternoon
only four Grandin school students affected by gas fumes on Monday morning, remained under hospital care, others having been discharged as physically fit.

Of the original patients only three remained at the Minnesota
dia hospital. Norman McCool, Betty Shaw and Teresa McNeil.
The fourth patient, M. Fyfe, was admitted Tuesday morning after examination by Dr. J. H. Conroy.
She had not felt the effects of the gas on Monday but during the night fell ill and in the morning
Dr. Conroy was summoned.

Suggesting that their inquiries indicate that a most rapid investigation into the escape of gas at the Grandin school should be held immediately in order to find out the cause of the gas escape and therefore the danger which it caused on Monday morning, necessitating several scholars going to hospital for treatment and the closing of the school for the day, Julian Garrett, manager of the Northwestern Utilities Ltd. in Edmonton, has communicated his views with the Edmonton Separate School Board.

Garrett's letter states that the company officials carried out an exhaustive survey of the situation underlying the gas escape and their conclusions are definite. The letter, which was received by the treasurer of the board, says in part:

WIN APPEAL IN SUIT AGAINST CONSERVATION

Court Declares Conservation Is Valid In Case of Spoonier Lake

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—An appeal of the Spoonier Lake and Arthur G.
Spoonier against a judgment of the Supreme Court of Ontario involving the constitutionality of the Turkey Point Game Conservation Act was allowed, with costs, by the Ontario Court of Appeal today.

In rendering judgment, the chief justice declared that the "impeached legislation" invalid as respects agriculture.

Respondents to the litigation
were the Ontario Game and Conservation Board and the Attorney General of Ontario.

The Turkey Valley Game Conservation Act set up the board in which was vested authority to reduce gas production within the conservation area to a maximum of 200,000 lb.

COURT RULES ON REFUND OF TIMBER TIES

Obligation Rests With 4
Western Provinces, Not Dominion

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—The obligation to refund timber dues rests with the four western provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and not with the Dominion, under the terms of a judgment handed down today by the Supreme Court of Canada.

In its judgment the court dealt with the dispute between the Apparently, the government of the reference developed from a dispute between the Dominion and the western provinces concerning dues paid by homesteaders for the privilege of cutting timber on their lands for commercial purposes.

DISPUTE FOLLOWED RETURN OF THE NATURAL RESOURCES TO THE WESTERN PROVINCES

The dispute followed the return of the natural resources to the western provinces of the Dominion
under the Dominion Lands Act passed in 1907. The act provided that homesteaders who had not lived on their homesteads three years and who had not "proved up" their land should be granted their homesteads for sale in a commercial way. The act also provided that the land should be sold to the homesteader for a price of $10 per acre.

If the homesteader subsequently "proved up" his homestead and was granted his patent, he became entitled to a refund of all such timber dues paid in by the Dominion government.

After the transfer of the natural resources to the western provinces in 1909 and 1910, homesteaders became entitled to a refund of the timber dues paid in by the Dominion
government.

ANOTHER RELIEF "LOAN"

The city has secured from the federal Treasury $300,000 of the $500,000 loan it asked for. The amount will not meet the city's outlay on relief this year, and there is a balance from last year's loans to pay.

Edmonton needed every dollar it asked for, and should have got the full amount.

The loan is made against treasury notes issued by the city, bearing interest at 4 per cent. That does not mean much, except the addition of $300,000 to our nominal debt and an annual interest bill of $15,000 or so which the taxpayers will pay.

Eventually, it is altogether likely, the Dominion will have to write off both principal and interest of the relief money loans advanced to this and all the other cities.

The accounts at Ottawa might as well hire an airman to write the loan items in smoke on the sky as spend time entering them in a ledger.

This loan is in essence nothing but a draft against the collective wealth of the nation. If Ottawa has seen fit to lend public credit to bankers, it can lend it to the city.

Then borrow back the money at interest, that is its own look-out. It should have printed the money and forwarded it to the city at cost.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE SHIRTS

Canadians, it seems, are getting to be shirt-minded. Montreal has a red-shirt organization which is the front of the police riot-squad. Toronto boasts a black-shirt brigade, with pronounced if peculiar ideas as to how things should be run.

With all the talk about the mobilization of a khaki-shirt corps there, whose business in life is to frustrate the designs of some other group distinguished by shirts of a different hue.

Pretty soon, the prospect is, every color in the rainbow may have been appropriated by one faction or another as its emblem and badge of identification, and the plain Canadian citizen who goes down street in a shirt of any tint will be liable to suspicion of being a member of one of the assorted brands or an "anti" something or other.

All very ridiculous, no doubt. But there is something that is not ridiculous behind this outcropping of emblematic shirts; something that requires the immediate and very serious attention of Canada's Government.

Inced in each of these shirts is a human being, with personal needs, wants, feelings and purposes much like those of other men. What the overwhelming majority of them want is a chance to earn a decent living. Of course they are asking for and demanding all sorts of things under the drive of exasperation. But give them jobs with wages enough to support themselves and their families in reasonable comfort, and the shirt-flaunting organizations will fade away as the paraders desert the streets.

Peace, order and good government in Canada depend upon measures being taken to set our idle men at work. That is the moral to be drawn from the epidemic of organizations of protest.

SILENCE DOES NOT MEAN SAFETY

Not the least hampering, nor the least dangerous, among the factors which are blocking recovery from the depression is the placency with which the plight of the common man is viewed by interests which are directly dependent for their success and even for their safety upon his well-being and contentment.

The people of Canada, it is said, are getting used to the depression. They are learning to live with their present means. No doubt they are getting used to the conditions, they have endured for long enough. And they are certainly living within their means; they couldn't live beyond their means if they wanted to in these days of vanished credit.

But the assumption that familiarity with these conditions will breed contentment with this is a dangerous doctrine to hold or preach; and the notion that the country can ever "come back" while people in the common walks of life have to live within the narrow boundaries of their present incomes is sheer delusion.

It is true that the people of Canada are suffering in silence, and with a self-restraint that is very remarkable. But they are not accepting the present situation as being all that is to befall them. They are not accepting the leadership could find no easement. They know better. How long can their silent endurance be counted upon when remedial measures are undertaken without more delay? If the national authorities and the directors of our financial affairs did not understand that they are facing grave difficulties in western Canada during the approaching winter that is because they are living in a dream-land removed from the man on the street and the man on the farm.

On the statute books of this and almost if not all the other provinces there is debt adjustment legislation, under one name or another, that has been enacted for the specific purpose of making mortgage debts uncollectable. That legislation never was, and never should, come out of the books until the dollar is restored to something like the value it had when the debts were incurred.

Anyone who fondly hopes that this preventive legislation will be lifted, and creditors allowed to collect dollars worth two or three of the dollars they lend is only indulging in vain imaginings. Unless the people of Canada are entirely bereft of intelligent self-interest and their native sense of justice, that will not happen.

Rightly viewed, the interests of the creditor and the debtor today are identical. The one wants to collect. The other wants to pay. The one cannot collect because the other cannot pay. Salvation for both of them lies in restoring the value of the dollar to something like what it was when it was issued. If one goes down the other will go with him. A healthy regard for his own pocket should line up the creditor beside the debtor. The dollar that is worth a dollar should be honest and debt-paying power restored; by a controlled currency, preferably by a central bank.

Poems That Live

There is a hand that bends our deeds To night's issues than we planned; Each son that triumphs, each that bleeds My country's name, and dark command I do not know beneath what sky.

Nor was that soul shall be thy fate; Only the hand that bends our deeds I only know it shall be great.

The Passing Show

By J. S. Cooper

The New York Times in an editorial on General Balbo's flight to America recalls that it became the ultimate aim of Leonardo da Vinci to solve the mystery of flight. "Wings for humanity" became the pursuit of his life. "One has but to know, and there will be wings," declared da Vinci, cheered by news from Toccacelli that Columbus had succeeded in his quest for a western wind. The mechanic, inspired by his master's passion, uttered the vain hope that with the coming of wings there would be no more wars, but that "sailing on wings the choirs of angels, the nations would chant the name of Leonardo."

And who has achieved wings vastly more efficient than Leonardo hoped for, the winged fliers of today are not rapturous angels but bombers and fighters, ready to scatter destruction and death on the earth's hosts beneath.

Commenting on the victory over physical obstacles won by aerial engineers, the Times observes that the flight of da Vinci's winged squadron from the very land of da Vinci's defeat when it carried the greetings of Italy to the land that took the name of Amerigo Vesputti.

Did it take the name of Amerigo Vesputti? Or was it the name of Richard Amery, sheriff of Bristol at the time John Cabot made his voyage to the northern continent, who handed the King's boat to Cabot?

Vesputti, who was agent at Seville for the family, claimed that he had touched the southern continent on June 12, 1492, just eight days before Cabot and his sixteen sailors sighted Cape North, the northern extremity of Cape Breton.

The house of record says that the King to Cabot for discovering the western land amounted to £40, showing that Henry the Seventh was a good ruler of men.

Five British naval officers in a 54-foot sailing ketch without any auxiliary power have arrived at Victoria from Hong Kong in China. That's a minor voyage that has been made in England when the former reached the Mexican Gulf Islands and the latter the mainland of North America.

But five naval officers have been in England when the former reached the Mexican Gulf Islands and the latter the mainland of North America.

With the word air of naval men talking of their exploits, they say that the trip across the Pacific was "fine."

They left Hong Kong ten days ahead of their original schedule in order to escape the monsoon, but got into the tail end of a typhoon. The crew had to leave the little boat and go below for twenty hours it was safe to come on deck. They called at Yokohama and the Aleutians, but it was a "fine" trip.

Much relief from the pain often follows the application of some form of heat. This may be given through treatment with the diathermy. The diathermy is a moderate amount of heat, plenty of heat, and will produce a congestion of blood through the joint area.

Since the average arthritic joint has a poor blood supply, it is advisable to use any kind of heat to produce a better blood supply.

Heat also assists in relieving stiffness and in returning more normal movement. The diathermy may be followed by another heat treatment, using the deep therapy lamp.

While hot baths may appear nothing, they are weakening if used too often, and the warm sponge bath to be given daily is the one which I suggest you use.

In chronic conditions, massage should be given over the whole body three or more times each week.

The general massage makes the patient feel better and also stimulates the circulation. The massage over the affected joints should be a gentle stroking.

All massage is to be stopped during acute attacks. When kidneys, prostatic or adrenergic are hindering the circulation, the patient must be treated to take special manipulative treatments to overcome these conditions at the same time the massage is given.

Most part of the treatment is exercise, which is to be taken after the disease has been definitely overcome and the patient is ready to start building up his strength. The best exercise is walking.

Rest is best during acute inflammation but when this has disappeared and the bones are well on their way to normal, the patient must be treated to take special manipulative treatments to overcome these conditions at the same time the massage is given.

Rest is best during acute inflammation but when this has disappeared and the bones are well on their way to normal, the patient must be treated to take special manipulative treatments to overcome these conditions at the same time the massage is given.

Most part of the treatment is exercise, which is to be taken after the disease has been definitely overcome and the patient is ready to start building up his strength. The best exercise is walking.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

In diagnosed arthritis it is a good plan to use the X-ray, which often clearly shows the changes in the joints. During the X-ray examination it is usually possible to make sure whether the bones are affected and how much; it is also advisable to take X-ray pictures of the joints to see if there are any pockets around the roots, and of the sinuses.

In the treatment of arthritis there are many measures that are helpful to the patient, who must have the perseverance to continue the treatment. The rate of improvement may be rapid during the first few days, but then become slower as the patient returns to Dr. F. McCoy the diet, but no matter how slow or fast it is, there is hope if the patient is willing to follow instructions exactly.

Those patients who are willing to devote some time to the cure, who follow the diet, rest during periods of acute inflammation when exercise is harmful and who exercise during the free stages when movements help to maintain the muscular function, are the ones who make the best recovery. Arthritis is by no means a hopeless disease, and I have seen many patients accomplish cures satisfactory in every way.

The first thing to do is to begin on a fast, using orange juice, grapefruit juice, or tomato juice, and taking one glass every two hours. The fast is needed at the start to hasten the elimination from the body of the systemic poisons attacking the joints. The fast should be continued for five days, and should continue longer if you are able to find a doctor experienced in giving the fasting treatment.

During the fast and for some time longer you are to have at least one warm water enema each day by emptying the intestine regularly with the enema, the bowel is kept clean of poisonous wastes, and the therapeutic measure will be more effective. I have seen many patients accomplish cures satisfactory in every way.

The right diet to follow the fast is important. The chief foods to be avoided are the starches and sugars, and moderate amount of meat, plenty of both cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables, and one egg per day. Since the food which causes the most trouble is the starches and sugars, the food you should be most careful to cut down when you begin to use a sensible, well-planned diet you are employing the most helpful aid you could possibly have. The correct diet accomplishes goals in two ways: in the first place, it furnishes the materials for building a sound, healthy bloodstream, and in the second place it avoids those foods found by experience to make the arthritis worse.

Much relief from the pain often follows the application of some form of heat. This may be given through treatment with the diathermy. The diathermy is a moderate amount of heat, plenty of heat, and will produce a congestion of blood through the joint area. Since the average arthritic joint has a poor blood supply, it is advisable to use any kind of heat to produce a better blood supply.

Heat also assists in relieving stiffness and in returning more normal movement. The diathermy may be followed by another heat treatment, using the deep therapy lamp. While hot baths may appear nothing, they are weakening if used too often, and the warm sponge bath to be given daily is the one which I suggest you use.

Gladys Gives Scalp Treatment

Procedure for Using Vaseline Remedy is Outlined

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

"DEAR MISS DIX: I've been

this hair oil treatment described in your Beauty Culture

booklet, and my hair has improved

no end. I want to tell you that dandruff remedy also outlined in this booklet, however, and would greatly appreciate it if you would tell me just how to use the preparation.

"HILARY"

Before applying the subliminal remedy, you should scrape your scalp gently with a brush, and then wash your hair vigorously, in order to remove all accumulated dandruff. Then part your hair at intervals, and rub a quantity of the mixture into the scalp of each part.

After the mixture has been applied to your entire scalp, massage

it in with your fingertips. Allow it to remain on overnight, if possible,

and shampoo your hair the next morning with a pure, bland

soap and tepid water.

Gladys Glad

Liquid powder is generally resented as better for the arms,

shoulders and back than dry powder, as it is more easily applied and does not rub off so easily. However, it is not so easily applied

as dry powder, and is more likely to clog the pores of the skin. It is therefore better to use dry powder

when applying this type of powder.

When using it, first shake the bottle

thoroughly, then pour a quantity of the powder on a clean surface,

and then apply it with a brush.

If you are wearing a low-backed dress, it is wise to allow someone to apply the powder for you, as you will not be able to get it evenly, and it will look streaky and unattractive.

"Dear Miss Glad: I read a recent magazine article, I read that it is harmful to shampoo the hair, for it ruins the scalp. Is this true? I have been told that it is, and I am confused. I have been told that it is not true, but I am not sure. I

STARRY PAIR LEAD FORCES AGAINST 'PEG

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3.—Led by the brilliancy of Dunc Littlefair and Alex McPherson, Hamilton Tigers are on their way further in quest of the Mann cup, emblematic of the Dominion lacrosse championship as the result of decisively defeating Winnipeg Argonauts, Manitoba champions, in a sudden death elimination contest, here Monday night, Oct. 1, last.

The eastern champions simply had too much class for the locals. They uncovered a smooth-passing and systematic game and had the Argonauts completely baffled in the opening stages. Although the Manitobans showed to better advantage in the final period, they were outscored and outplayed throughout.

YOUNG STAR BRILLIANT
Hamilton displayed strength in every department of the game. They were strong offensively and just as powerful defensively. Bright lumin-ries in the triumph were Dune Littlefair and Alex McPherson. This pair gave an exhibition of lacrosse never before seen on local form. The 19-year-old blonde had had two and three men watching him throughout, yet managed to break away and bag five goals while he also assisted in the scoring of several others. McPherson was undoubtedly the trickiest player of the lot and was a hard man to stop.

During a rather hard checking second period, C. Clark, of Hamilton, received a bad cut over the lip necessitating his retirement from the game and four stitches in the dressing room. It was the only casualty of the contest.

MAKE GALLANT BID
Handicapped by lack of competition, the Argonauts, who played but two games since the spring, made a gallant bid to stem the easterners but class told its tale. They lacked combination, were slow in getting away their passes and Haw-

Captured Star Beam Lights Chicago Exhibition

MODERN MIRACLE MONORS VISIT OF WIZARD MARCONI

Caught by Telescope in Italy—Wireless to New York, Telegraphed to Chicago—Astral Beam Throws Floodlight Switches On.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Light from the star, Capella, was captured last night as the series of honors accorded Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, who is a guest of the city and the world's fair.

Welcomed at the fair ground and presented with a special medal by President Rufus Dawes, of the exposition, Marconi witnessed the illumination of the agency of Capella's light. A beam from the distant star, picked up by a telescope in Florence, Italy, was flashed by wire to New York and then by telegraph wire to Chicago.

Here it replaced the light from the star Arcturus as medium for turning the switch which floodlights the fair area.

The senator also flashed around the world last night by wireless rays of the letter "S." It was the same letter he sent more than 30 years ago across the Atlantic ocean in the first important test of his invention.

St. Paul Family Loses All In Fire
ST. PAUL, Oct. 3.—Fleeing from their burning home in their night attire, R. J. Thibault and his family narrowly escaped death Friday night. Awakened by smoke on the second floor, Mr. Thibault woke his family and rushed them out of an upstairs window.

Nothing was saved from the fire and the family are being taken care of temporarily by neighbors and friends.

KRYDOR YOUTH FOUND GUILTY

BATTLEFORD, Sask., Oct. 3.—After deliberating three hours, a jury Saturday returned a verdict guilty against Steve Bohun, 19-year-old Krydor youth, charged with murdering Peter Pommeret, postmaster of Bohun, last June. Sentence will be pronounced by Chief Justice Brown next week.

In their verdict the jurors recommended leniency on account of the age and inferior mentality of the youth.

Giving evidence S. R. Laycock, professor of educational psychology at the University of Saskatchewan, placed the mental age of accused at about 19 years. Actually Bohun's mental age was about nine years, but allowance had to be made, he said, for his non-Anglo-Saxon background.

Bohun stood the postmaster in his office on June 21 and rifled the pockets of the dead man, taking $300, part of which was later recovered.

AMERICAN AID IS WAGED TO RAIL WORKERS' EFFORTS

All Legal Expenses of Canadian Anti-Wage Campaign to be Paid by Rail-Labor Unions, Says Cleveland Report.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3.—A. F. Whitney, chairman of the railway Labor Executive's Association, said last night the organization's full support had been pledged to Canadian railroad workers in their campaign against a second 10 per cent wage reduction.

Representatives of the Canadian railroads conferred with rail-labor officials in his office on June 1. Mr. Whitney said, and at that time a resolution was adopted providing all legal expenses of the Canadian anti-wage reduction campaign would be paid by the railway labor unions and any other needed support would be given.

The resolution, Mr. Whitney said, provided the association should "go as far as possible" in aiding the workers of the Dominion, many of whom, he said, were receiving wages approximately 17½ per cent lower than rail workers in Canadian same capacities in the United States.

The rail unions have approximately 100,000 members in Canada, Mr. Whitney said.

U.S. Aid Fully Expected
MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—Announcement from Cleveland that the railway labor executive association had decided to give full support to Canadian rail workers in their campaign against a second 10 per cent wage reduction was fully expected by general chairman of the running trades' unions stated here.

The general chairman, in conference here to decide the next step in the dispute, declined further comment. They had advised international headquarters of the various brotherhoods that their unions had given him with him to shoot parties, rather than accept the cut which was put into force last May 1.

She Did Not Follow His Prescription
HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 3.—Miss Laura Taylor, of Dundas, Ont., who said in the summer of 1932 that doctors told her she was doomed to die unless she married, is believed here to be the woman of the same name who disappeared from Ellisville, N.J., under the name "Miss Westwater." Miss Taylor received hundreds of replies in her appeal for a husband but accepted none.

Henry Sentenced
PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 3.—Charged with attempted suicide W. E. Henry, of Winnipeg, self-styled doctor, was sentenced to one year in jail here Monday. A trail of worthless cheques at Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton led to Henry's apprehension. Arrested last week he was later found to be suffering from poisoning.

Youth Accidentally Shoots Self Sunday
SMOKY LAKE, Oct. 3.—Stumbling with a .22 calibre rifle in his hand, Mike Coruk, 15, was accidentally killed Sunday at 6:30 p.m. The youth was going for coals and was in the habit of taking his rifle with him to shoot parties. The bullet passed through his chest, and death was almost instantaneous.

He is a son of John Coruk, 40, miles east of Wapiti post office. His younger brother, George, was with him and called the parents. Constable Christophers, R.C.M.P., was notified.
